ADR Firm Continues Offering Virtual Mediations to Serve Attorneys and Clients Nationwide

LOS ANGELES – June 7, 2021 – Signature Resolution, a leader in alternative dispute resolution, today announced the reopening of its Los Angeles and Century City offices for in-person mediations.

Signature Resolution continues to abide by all state and local COVID-19 regulations and will update office policies in accordance with changes to state and local guidelines, including face mask requirements for fully vaccinated and unvaccinated persons, capacity limitations and other safety protocols.

In addition to reopening offices for in-person mediations, Signature Resolution welcomes attorneys and their clients to continue resolving matters through secure video conferencing. Throughout the pandemic, Signature Resolution continued holding hearings virtually with the same high standards of service, privacy and security that are delivered with in-person hearings. The shift to virtual operations has proven to be both efficient and effective, with a success rate on par with in-person hearings.

“With the safety and comfort of our guests, staff and neutrals as a top priority, the Signature Resolution team is pleased to welcome guests back to our Los Angeles and Century City offices,” said Dario Higuchi, managing partner of Signature Resolution. “For flexibility and convenience, we’re also continuing to offer our virtual mediation services for attorneys and their clients around the country.”
